(Discuss importance in terms of historical or architectural context as defined by theme, period, and geographic scope. Also address integrity.)

The structure is located in Huntington Park, adjacent to City of Vernon, the first "exclusively industrial" city in America. The building is industrial in style. Research of available Sanborn Fire Insurance Maps indicates that the building was originally constructed to be used as a machine shop.

The integrity of the structure is high. It is not a particularly good example of the architectural style or of a method of construction. Research of available historical records has not uncovered any significant associations of the occupants.
